

The Growth Portfolio

Portfolio Objective: Portfolio Strategy: Target Portfolio Allocation:

The primary objective of the Growth Focus portfolio is to invest in a portfolio of equities with an emphasis on returns earned primarily through capital appreciation. There will be risk to capital.

The strategy provides a diversified exposure to USD-denominated equities using Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs). The selection of ETFs will be primarily equity ETFs with a strong focus on high growth sectors and companies. The equity ETFs held will include small and mid-sized companies that are expected to grow faster than average over time, albeit with a higher level of volatility than large companies. Small and medium-sized companies generally do not pay much by way of dividends and as such most of the return achieved will be via price appreciation.

Who should invest? Market Outlook:

Investors seeking higher returns and those who can withstand a moderate level of risk. There is risk to capital, however, over the long-term this portfolio should outperform deposits and other short-term instruments. It is recommended investors have an investment time horizon of at least 5 years.

The U.S. Federal Reserve continued its tightening policy with a 50 bps increase in December 2022, down from 75 bps in November 2022. The reduced pace was warranted based on the slowdown in inflation as the Consumer Price Index fell to 6.5% y-o-y in December, after reaching a peak of 9.1% in June. The Federal Funds rate thus ended the year at 4.25%-4.50% as expected. The 10-year U.S. Treasury-Bill rate moderated somewhat in Q4, and stood at 3.88% as at December 31, 2022. Labour markets have remained resilient with unemployment at 3.5% in December and job creation still positive. Markets continue to expect a recession in 2023, the magnitude of which will depend largely on the aggression with which the Federal Reserve continues to raise interest rates and whether the labour market can continue to hold up. The S&P 500 was up 7.08% in Q4, but overall was down 19.4% in 2022. Elevated inflation and recession fears continue into 2023 as most companies continue to be negatively impacted by reduced demand, higher input costs and negative currency effects from the strong U.S. dollar. In addition to inflation, geopolitical risks remain as well as climate risks, lingering Covid infections and a new XBB 1.5 variant: all contributing to uncertainty in 2023 as each of these have the potential to knock the global economy back several steps. On the positive side, however, China has started to re-open its economy and this is expected to increase demand for goods and services.
